Alaska is trying to bring some kind of order out of the chaos resulting from Friday's earthquake which left many of its cities in ruins and a death toll to date of 178. Scenes here depict some of destruction which takes residents of Anchorage and its environs. First on left is a crumpled leaning store with a huge fissure in the sidewalk just below it. In the next photo, a couple view the remains of their children's school, most of which has crashed into a huge hole opened up in the ground. A drop of some 15 feet from the Fourth Ave. sidewalk level was taken by the stores in the next picture, although a power pole still stands. Right, a mother and her son look sorrowfully at their home, almost completely swallowed by the quake. See latest story of the disaster below. (AP Wire Photos)

Many More Quake Dead Feared as Check-Up Ends

ANCHORAGE (AP)—Alaska civil defense officials today released a new death toll and reported that the deaths could not be confirmed. The toll of dead and injured from Friday's earthquake and aftershocks is now 178 in a quake which left many of its cities in ruins and a death toll to date of 178. Scenes here depict some of destruction which takes residents of Anchorage and its environs.

Anchorage's Entire Business Area May be Relocated Says Mayor

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Relocation of the entire downtown business area of this principal Alaskan city is a possibility as the result of Friday's destructive earthquake. Mayor George Sharrock said he "would not discount" the idea. He told a press conference Monday his findings showed the worst damage was in bluff areas of clay and sand layers which slipped. Sharrock said means would be sought to stabilize "bad areas" which might slip from another quake. "We don't feel that this quake need deter our future," he declared. "We must just learn what we have now and how to deal with it."

TAX AID WASHINGTON (CP-AP)—A new U.S. tax provision that allows income taxpayers to deduct for property losses has, ironically, adversely affected Alaska's ability to help itself recover from quake damage, now estimated at from $350,000,000 to $500,000,000. The tax change—provided in the recent federal tax-cutting bill—permits taxpayers to deduct from their 1963 taxes any casualty losses—after the first $100—which may have occurred in 1961 before the April 15 tax deadline. Persons who have already filed may file amended returns.

Edward A. McDermott, director of the office of emergency planning, said Monday that since Alaska's income tax is levied as a percentage of the federal tax, the tremendous write-off of property damage in the state will be a crippling blow to state income tax receipts which provide 41 per cent of total state revenues.

Alberni Clear Up

PORT ALBERNI, B.C. (CP) Two detachments of troops rolled in today with heavy equipment and began "operation clean-up" in the flooded twin cities of Alberni and Port Alberni. They faced the task of dealing with tilting houses, upended cars, logs and other debris littering streets.

Between 40 and 50 houses were destroyed and 350 damaged to varying degrees in the four successive tidal waves that swirled up the Alberni Canal from the open Pacific Saturday morning. No dollar value has been placed on the damage but is expected to reach into the millions. Numerous business establishments were destroyed or damaged.

An official of the Indian affairs department estimated it will cost $100,000 to rehabilitate Indian families uprooted by the tidal flood resulting from the Alaskan earthquake. The flood hit villages along Vancouver Island's west coast and 17 families had to be evacuated at the Indian settlement of Hot Springs Cove north of here.

Steps went forward meanwhile to provide financial aid. Assistant Provincial Secretary L. J. Wallace said in Victoria he hoped to have a damage report to place before the cabinet by Thursday.

The federal government has promised financial help but is awaiting a request from B.C. Part of the Clacton trouble resulted from clashes between rival teen-age gangs of "Mods" and "Rockers."

SPEECH BY FULBRIGHT LAUDED BY ECONOMIC CHIEF OF CUBA

GENEVA (AP)—Cuba's Economics Minister, Ernesto Guevara, said today that Senator J. William Fulbright's speech on Cuba could have changed the atmosphere between Havana and Washington if State Secretary Dean Rusk had not rejected it.

He told a press conference: "The most important thing is that Sen. Fulbright recognizes the stability of the Cuban revolution. In the United States this is necessary. The idea that Cuba is here to stay is growing in the United States."

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, last week suggested the United States revise its thinking about Cuba and other Communist nations. The next day Rusk said the Arkansas Democrat's speech did not represent U.S. policy.

Guevara, here for a UN Trade Conference, said the U.S. economic blockade of Cuba was effective at first but had become a "nuisance of secondary importance."

He disclosed that the British-Dutch Shell Oil Company had formally accepted Castro's offer of talks on compensation for its seized refinery and other properties in Cuba.

B.C. Seeks Bigger Share Of Federal Tax Monies

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Bennett indicated today that British Columbia will press hard for a bigger share of federal tax money and a revision of the federal government's equalization formula.

"Our line is not soft and it is not hard—it is a realistic line," he said as he entered the opening session of the Federal-Provincial conference. "It is imperative that an increase be made at once in provincial standard tax rates and that variations in provincial costs be reflected in realistic equalization payments."

British Columbia and Ontario at present do not receive equalization payments because of their high per capita income. Mr. Bennett said in a press statement that the present equalization formula is "gravely deficient" in that it that it seriously underestimates the shared tax revenue needs of other provinces. High personal incomes in B.C. reflected the high cost of provincial services and national tariff policies added more cost.

He said it takes more tax dollars per capita in B.C. to supply the same level of highway development or education as in other provinces. The Kelowna visitors and convention bureau is urgently appealing to Kelowna residents to help in providing billets for Teen Town Convention delegates arriving Wednesday.

R. K. Gordon, co-ordinator, said today, "Time has run out. There are 60 Teen Towners arriving tomorrow that we still haven't beds for."

"The hospitality we show these teenagers will be reflected on our future tourist years. Anyone with room to accommodate one or more should contact Joan Armistead, 2021 Keller Place."

Mods—short for moderns—ride souped up motor scooters. The boys wear elegant Italian suits, their girls chic outfits sometimes with ankle length skirts. Rockers, male and female, wear black leather jackets, leather pants, leather boots and crash helmets. The sexes, when clothed, are indistinguishable. They ride powerful motorbikes and their pastime is "doing the ton"—topping 100 miles an hour.

MPs Hurl Abuse In Easter Hassle

Ethiopia Bombs Somalia

MOGADISHU, Somali (Reuters)—Ethiopian planes bombed the Somali northern region capital of Hargeisa today in two waves, a Somali government source said today.

The source said the Ethiopians also launched a mass attack on the border post of Tug-wajaleh today and Somalis were trying to push Ethiopian troops back.

The source said the four planes made their first sortie at 6:45 a.m. and returned with two more at 7:30 a.m. Two of the planes were heavy bombers.

Hargeisa is near the central sector of the Ethiopian-Somali border, scene of recent clashes between ground forces.

Fighting continued there Monday despite a cease-fire agreement reached the same day between delegations of the two countries in Khartoum, Sudan.

The two sides have been in dispute over their 900-mile common border for several years.

Under the terms of the cease-fire agreement, both nations were to withdraw all their troops to between six and nine miles of the border. The withdrawal was to start April 1 and end April 6, under the supervision of a joint commission.

Small claims of Ethiopian forces shelled the border town of Dolo Monday.

Snarling Dogs Shift Sit-Ins ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) Police moved in with snarling dogs today on 140 young Negroes staging a sit-down demonstration in the Ponce de Leon Hotel in this racially-troubled city.

Some time after the Negro youths had taken seats in the dining room of the city's finest hotel, officers moved in, led by Sheriff L. O. Davis and Police Chief Virgil Stewart.

After the Negroes were ordered three times to leave, police brought up the dogs, barking and snapping.

Holding the trained dogs back on leashes, police then marched the demonstrators outside.

Farms, Good Friday Sitting Prove Contentious Issues

OTTAWA (CP)—Stinging barbs of personal abuse were fired in the Commons Easter Monday amid accusations of broken promises and betrayed confidences.

The furor broke loose as MPs indulged in bitter exchanges over who was to blame for Good Friday's extraordinary sitting of Parliament.

At intervals the Commons discussed the only real business of the day—consideration of $240,000,000 in supplementary spending estimates for the 1963-64 fiscal year that ends today.

But this, too, was little more than a running battle about the controversial shuffle of certain farm responsibilities between Agriculture Minister Hays and Forestry Minister Sauve.

ASK ADMISSION Conservative MPs demanded an admission from the minority Liberal government it had erred in taking 17 days to revoke certain responsibilities that had been transferred to Mr. Sauve from Mr. Hays Feb. 3.

The outbreak of recriminations was ignited by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker.

"The only reason we were brought back here is that the government, and particularly the minister of justice, found themselves in an impossible position in moving that the House should sit on Good Friday and then had to again beat one of those retreats to which the government has become so accustomed," he said.

ATTACKS CHURCHILL Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena) delivered a scathing criticism of Mr. Churchill. "The Conservative's remark," he said, "confirms the reason why he was fired from the position of minister of trade and commerce" in the former government.

GIVES WARNING Social Credit Leader Thompson warned that the Commons was in danger of making a public spectacle of itself.

"I think that what happened on Friday is a precedent which we ought to be ashamed of," he said.

Saudi Arabia's King Ibn Saud Ousted By Brother As Ruler

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—All King Saud of Saudi Arabia has been stripped of all powers, and his brother, Crown Prince Faisal, proclaimed regent and uncontested ruler of the oil-rich desert kingdom, Mecca Radio announced Monday night.

Faisal took over after a power struggle that threatened to plunge Saudi Arabia into civil war.

Faisal, Saudi Arabia's 58-year-old premier, issued a royal decree delegating Saud's political, administrative, judicial and executive powers and prerogatives to himself.

The change left Saud, the 61-year-old monarch who has ruled the country since his father King Ibn Saud died in November, 1953, with the title of king and little else.

Mr. K Arrives Amid Rumors Of Showdown With Red China

BUDAPEST (AP)—Premier Khrushchev was welcomed warmly today on his arrival for talks with Hungarian Communist leaders that may lead to a showdown with Red China.

Against the backdrop of a Peking call for world communism to repudiate the Soviet premier's leadership, Premier Janos Kadar predicted Khrushchev's visit will "improve the unity of the Socialist (Communist) camp." Informed sources report the Hungarian Communist party has voted formally to support Moscow in any split with Peking.

Khrushchev's reply was formal and non-committal. "Our visit not only will be a cordial get-together of friends but a continuation of the extremely fruitful talks during the visit to the Soviet Union of the Hungarian party and government delegation last summer," he said.

Those talks in July, 1963, dealt with the Chinese issue. "It is our conviction that this further exchange of views with the Hungarian party leaders will be most interesting and fruitful," Khrushchev said.

Khrushchev, Kadar and Hungarian President Istvan Dobi went to the parliament on the left bank of the Danube River for talks.

Police Make Sudden Move In Armory Raids Case

MONTREAL (CP) — Sudden and secret activity has led to reports that police are on the verge of breaking the case of weapons thefts from Quebec armories.

Three young men were arrested and are to appear in court today on charges of possession of explosives. They were arrested in their flat Monday night and police found nine sticks of dynamite and separate literature.

Le Divoir says a combined force of Montreal and Quebec Provincial Police and the RCMP was sent to the Laurentian Mountains north of Montreal to find "secret depots" where stolen arms are believed hidden.

The newspaper says "it can be foreseen that within a few hours the security forces will have recovered part of the stolen arms."

The police activity began early Monday when raiding parties were sent out Monday night to four other young men were questioned at police headquarters.

NO COMMENT

Assistant Chief Inspector Russell General, in charge of anti-terrorist activities for the Montreal police, refused to comment on the raids.

The three facing charges, all in their 20s, were not armed and offered no resistance.

Police have been operating without fanfare since machine-guns, mortars, rifles, pistols and ammunition were stolen in two armory raids earlier this year.

A variety of weapons were stolen last Jan. 29 at the armory of Les Fusiliers Mont-Royal on Montreal's Pine Avenue. The second theft of 33 rifles and

Commonwealth Cable Break Likely Repaired By Today

MONTREAL (CP)—A break in the Commonwealth Pacific cable just off Vancouver Island should be repaired by Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, Douglas Bowie, president and general manager of the Canadian Overseas Telecommunications Corporation, said today.

Mr. Bowie said the trouble spot lies in shallow water in the Alaskan Channel, 7 1/2 miles from Port Alberni, B.C., and the repair crew will operate from a tugboat and a scow.

The earlier announcement of the cable break, from London, said it was probably a result of the Alaskan earthquake that sent tidal waves down the Pacific coast of North America.

"All-Electric" Rates Cut Bills

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Hydro and Power Authority Monday announced its third general power rate reduction since March, 1962, and introduced a new "all-electric" rate which homeowners and businesses will get a special rate if they use electricity exclusively.

The Authority's announcement said the new "all-electric" rate would save homeowners about 20 per cent and businesses and other commercial premises up to 24 per cent.

It stated that new "all-electric" rate "to qualify the user must use electricity and no other fuel for all purposes." It will compare favorably with the lowest rates available for this class of service anywhere in Canada and the Pacific Northwest.

The other three categories of reductions, announced by the government-controlled authority, and effective in the first months of April 1, were:

1. A new standard residential rate which it said would bring the average decrease in residential bills to 18.5 per cent since the Authority was formed two years ago.

2. Extension of low irrigation rates to all parts of the Authority's system throughout the province.

UNIFORM RATE

3. Replacement of 19 rates affecting small businesses with a single uniform rate applying throughout the authority's service area—which now takes in about 95 per cent of the province.

The authority said that under its new "all-electric" rate the average annual bill for heating a 1,300-square-foot home will be reduced to $157 from the present $200.

An Unfair Comparison Made By Coast Paper

The Vancouver papers are back at their old trick of taking a poke at Kelowna in a mad effort to hurt Premier Bennett. On Tuesday, the Vancouver Province in an editorial arguing Vancouver should retain its own electrical power and that Premier Bennett should allow it to do so, said "Kelowna Premier Bennett's home town retains power to its residents."

Frankly we couldn't care a hoot whether or not Vancouver retains its power or not. However we do think the Province is drawing a pretty long and imaginary bow when it compares the power situation in Kelowna and Vancouver.

The coast city was part of the B.C. Electric system and when that organization was taken over by the B.C. Hydro, the city remained part of the system.

On the other hand Kelowna has never been part of the B.C. Electric or the B.C. Hydro systems. It purchases its power wholesale from the West Kootenay Power and Light Company. In the early days it manufactured its own electrical power but finally made an arrangement with the West Kootenay.

Thus the situation in the two cities is quite different. Kelowna has always handled its own power retaining Vancouver has never been in the retail business. For Kelowna to retain its electrical power is not new, but for Vancouver to go into the power retailing field would be a completely new departure.

Yet the Province, by inference, leaves the impression that Kelowna retains its own power simply because Mr. Bennett is premier and comes from this city.

As a matter of fact, exactly the opposite is true. It can almost be said that Kelowna handles power retailing almost in spite of Mr. Bennett. Following the B.C. Electric takeover there was a strong suggestion that the West Kootenay too would be taken over. This was strongly opposed by Kelowna and other southern interior cities.

The Province's comparison of Kelowna and Vancouver is unfair in comparing something that always has been with something that never was.

GRAND TOUR

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

RED ENSIGN

Sir: The Dr. W. J. Knox Chapter 1091 of Kelowna has requested me to write to you regarding the Canadian Red Ensign flag, bringing to the attention of your readers some facts about this distinctive Canadian flag that may not be generally known.

In 1945, a parliamentary committee considered and studied more than 1,200 designs for a Canadian flag. They voted overwhelmingly for the adoption of the Red Ensign. Accordingly, the Government of Canada, on September 26, 1945, by Order-in-Council (P.C. 5585) signed by the governor-general, ordered that:

"The Red Ensign with the shield of the coat of arms of Canada in the fly (hereinafter referred to as 'The Canadian Red Ensign') may be flown from buildings owned or occupied by the federal government, within or without Canada, and that it shall be appropriate to fly the Canadian Red Ensign within or without Canada, wherever place or occasion may make it desirable to fly a distinctive Canadian flag."

An official declaration in the Canada Shipping Act states: "The Canadian Red Ensign is hereby declared to be the proper national colors for all Canadian ships."

The Canadian Red Ensign is recognized all over the world as Canada's flag. It flies over all Canadian government offices in all foreign lands. At the United Nations, Canada flies the Canadian Red Ensign.

This flag has been endorsed by most national organizations in Canada. Letters have been sent to the secretary of state of Canada expressing that endorsement.

WRITE M.P.

Every Canadian who desires to have the Red Ensign retained as our national flag, has been urged to write to his Member of Parliament and his member of the provincial legislative assembly requesting this flag be confirmed as our national flag, and officially proclaimed by an act of parliament.

The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire joins many organizations in heartily endorsing the Canadian Red Ensign be confirmed as Canada's national flag.

Perhaps it should be pointed out that the flag of the Commonwealth is the Union Jack.

England's flag is the Cross of St. George; Scotland's flag is the Cross of St. Andrew; Ireland's flag is the Cross of St. Patrick. But, the Union Jack is also flown in these countries, as well as in all the Dominions, signifying that all these nations are also members of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

In 1921, the Government of Canada requested King George V to order a new coat of arms for Canada. In response to that request his majesty commanded the Royal College of Heraldry to design a suitable coat of arms. That coat of arms is in use today, and, in accordance with custom, the design of the shield is displayed on the fly in Canada's flag.

The emblem on the shield dates back to ancient times. The Chevalier Lion came to us from France. It was the emblem on the flag of William of Normandy and ever since 1066 has been incorporated in the Heraldry of British Monarchs.

The Red Lion Rampant on the golden field is even more ancient. It was the emblem of the Scottish kings. It was also the emblem of Brutus the Trojan who founded the City of London about 1100 B.C.

The Harp emblem is equally ancient and was taken into Ireland by the Tuatha de Danaans—the Danes of the ancient Greek writers.

FLEUR DE LIS

The Fleur De Lis of the fourth quarter of the shield is well known as the lily of France and held a proud place in the arms of British kings from the time of Henry II down to the time of George III. Just about the time this emblem was removed from the royal arms, it began to appear in the heraldry of Canada and has been with us ever since. It was this emblem, not the tricolor, that came with the French settlers into Canada.

The Red Ensign, Canada's flag, has the shield of the coat of arms of Canada in the fly. The flag consists of a red field with the Union Jack in the first quarter next to the staff. The inclusion of the Union Jack signifies Canada's association with the other members of the British Commonwealth of Nations. The coat of arms bears the emblems of the four countries from which the original settlers of Canada were chiefly drawn—The Three Lions of England—The Lilies of France—The Lion Rampant of Scotland—and the Harp of Ireland, together with a branch carrying three Maple leaves, the special emblem of Canada.

Yours sincerely,
MARY I. KERR,
(Mrs. D. J. Kerr)
Convener of Public Relations,
Dr. W. J. Knox Chapter, IOOE.

Nasser Alters To Tabby Cat

CAIRO (AP)—Compared with its free-swinging past, the propaganda machine of President Nasser of Egypt now is a relative tabby cat.

A changing world and the recent Arab summit conference, which resulted in mutual pledges to cleanse the Arab airwaves, have cut down Nasser's target.

Once Cairo's newspaper readers could open their papers each morning certain to see high crimes and moral turpitude ascribed to a generous portion of the world's leaders, the Voice of the Arabs and the newspapers were free to lambast almost anything in sight and be sure of tacit approval from "the boss."

The approved list of targets nowadays seems more-or-less limited to Israel, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and what is called British imperialism.

Through all this, the Cairo press and radio maintained its cutting edge by attacking Arab leaders opposed to Nasser. King Hussein of Jordan was called a British puppet in one of the more polite attacks. The sex life of aging King Saud of Saudi Arabia and his concubines was a staple. Syria's secessionist leaders were called fascists and butchers.

OTTAWA REPORT

Dief's Numbers Game Won By Reporters

By PATRICK NICHOLSON
Daily Courier Ottawa Bureau

There are some quiet chuckles and gentle satisfaction around the Press Gallery here on account of the final indisputable victory of the Press over Mr. D. in the "numbers game". The more so is the Press scoffing because this victory was scored by a neat shot through their own goal by Mr. D.'s defence.

The numbers game originally concerned the attendance at Conservative rallies addressed by Mr. D. during the 1962 and 1963 elections campaigns. An insignificant but traditional feature of any report of a political rally is an estimate of the attendance, just as any cub reporter following the fire engine always inserts an estimate of the dollar value of the cost of a conflagration.

Mr. D. always set himself up as a rival to the press in estimating the attendance. His estimate frequently differed from those arrived at by the press, and on such occasions his estimate was always the higher. The campaign train of campaign blarney which always had the same plot, Mr. D. would rail vehemently at one or more lack-lustre reporters, charging that their reports were inaccurate in that they had underestimated the crowd of the faithful who had flocked out to hear him speak.

IMPARTIAL WITNESSES

An exact count of an audience at any gathering where admission tickets are not sold is impossible. But journalists have ample time during the speeches to make their own reasonably accurate assessment. Frequently they are able to discuss this with the superintendent of the hall who knows how many seats have been provided and is accustomed to assessing the size of the crowd in his own hall. I recall a Tory meeting in the ice rink at Moose Jaw in the spring of 1962, when several newsmen viewed the crowd from the empty balcony, in company with the superintendent. This helpful official gave his own estimate which very closely matched that already made by the press, confirming the accuracy of the press estimates.

One of the more publicized disagreements concerning the crowd at a rally at Charlottetown in that same election. The experienced reporter of the Canadian Press agency estimated the crowd at 2,300. Others agreed with this figure, or matched it closely. But in the aircraft later Mr. D. asserted to the reporters that the crowd had totalled 4,000. In a speech the next day he adopted his familiar stance that "they were against me"; they had underplayed his drawing power and the crowd had later speech, he was quoted as really been 4,400. In an even asserter that the attendance had been "well over 3,400." No doubt several Charlottetowners present could say if the CP really made the error of 57 per cent.

OTTAWA RALLY

Now comes the pay-off. In the April issue of a four page hand-out from the Tory central office here, entitled "Canada's Young Conservatives", the lead story begins: By an overwhelming majority (approximately 1,460 out of a possible 1,500) the delegates at the Annual General Meeting... voted confidence in the continued leadership of the Rt. Hon. John G. Diefenbaker."

Dick Thresher, the national organizer of the party, told me that 1,213 voting delegates were registered - not 1,500. He also said that there were "about 650" chairs in the room where the standing vote was taken. About 150-200 standees crowded in also. This makes utter nonsense of the printed claim. In fact press reports at the time estimated that about 150 delegates supported Mr. D.; about 65 opposed him; and about 600 abstained from voting. And as was commented, how could the standees abstain from being counted on a standing vote? And what guarantee was there that the room contained only accredited delegates, since credentials were not checked at the door?

So the press definitely won that "numbers game" since the figures in their Tory publication were obviously incorrect.

See The World, Go To College

MONTREAL (CP)—See the world and go to college? Could be the motto of the Newlanders.

The group, Eddy Scott, 26, Henry Ross, 24, Dave Yeehon and Robert Docket, both 22, and Gerry Hill, 21, began singing folk songs four years ago and have since travelled across Canada, the United States and in Europe.

When they got together all five were working. They decided that an education was necessary so they agreed to put profits in the kitty and see whether it would finance their way through college.

Eddy, Dave and Robert have graduated and Gerry and Henry have two years to go.

The chances of them ever running out of songs again are fairly slim now. They can sing some 98 folk songs although not one of the group can read a note.

And they can sing in French, English, Hebrew, Italian, Swedish, Hungarian and Russian.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

March 31, 1964

John Diefenbaker led his Progressive Conservative party to a record-breaking victory six years ago today in the 1958 federal election. The Conservatives won 208 of the 265 Commons seats as more than 7,000,000 Canadians voted in a record poll. Liberals took 49 seats, losing heavily to the PCs in Quebec. The CCF strength was reduced by two thirds and Social Credit party representation was obliterated.

1939—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain pledged British aid to Poland in case of aggression.

1959—The Dalai Lama of Tibet eluded pursuers and reached northern India where he was granted political asylum.

What's In A Name?

(Victoria Columnist)

In recent weeks the use of the term "poverty" has become popular among certain American and Canadian politicians—particularly when they are describing conditions under which some Americans and Canadians are purported to live.

For instance, only last Monday Washington officially announced that President Johnson had agreed to launch a billion-dollar war against "poverty" in the United States.

As it later became clear, the "war" will have very little to do with poverty as such, being simply a revival of the Civilian Conservation Corps which was first organized and put into effect by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt in the great depression years.

The plan, no less laudable for all that, is designed to help 16 to 21-year-olds who are neither at school nor gainfully employed to become productive citizens by enlisting them in special job training centres which will provide them with training, basic education and work experience.

Certainly the use of the slogan "War on Poverty," catchy though it may be, is far too strong an expression to describe such a project.

The word "poverty," so indiscriminately used these days, has a multitude of meaning to most of the peoples of the world outside North America. To them it means the ultimate in want with its attendant curses of neglect, inhumanity, degradation, disease, nakedness, starvation and untimely death.

Apparently our North American politicians and publicists do not realize this. Even our own respected NDP leader Tommy Douglas less than a month ago stunned the House of Commons by declaring that between seven and eight million Canadians were "living either on or below the border-line of poverty."

His proof? That of 6.5 million persons reported to be in the labor force by the 1961 census, two million did not earn enough money to pay income tax, and of the 4.5 million who paid tax, 34 per cent, or 1.5 million, earned less than $3,000 a year.

As observed by one Toronto news analyst, Mr. Douglas did not go sufficiently into the statistics available. The 1961 census reported 480,000 farm operators, of which only 75,000 paid income tax. Thus, however, is hardly proof that the families of the remaining 405,000 operators lived in want.

The 1961 labor force also included 620,000 persons in the 15-19 years age group and nearly 900,000 married women. Surely the fact that many of these women and children did not earn enough to pay income tax does not mean that they also lived in want?

Nor is it logical to assume, as Mr. Douglas has, that all Canadians paying income tax on earnings of $3,000 or less are living in poverty.

We in Canada have set ourselves a high standard of living—as have our American cousins—to which all our needs, real and imaginary, are related. There may be many Canadians and Americans who are without many of the material possessions we look upon today as necessities—but this certainly does not mean that they are poverty-stricken. Certainly there is little poverty in either Canada or the United States, at least of the type that is known in much of Europe, South and Central America, Africa and Asia.

It would be advisable therefore, if both Canadian and American politicians and press agents exhibited a little more caution in using the word "poverty" whether it be as part of a catchy slogan for a federal project or simply as an opposition expression to goad the government into giving more welfare aid.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH Hint Of Quackery About This Clinic

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What about electric treatments I am getting for a condition which has been diagnosed as gall bladder, liver and kidney trouble? I have gone to this diagnostic clinic for several weeks and the treatment is quite expensive. I am also thinking of the possibility of cancer. This city doctor would not have a cancer. Would any doctor be able to give me a test?—E.M.

I don't know of any "electric treatment" for a combination of gall bladder, liver and kidney trouble.

But I do know that electrical gadgets that are supposed to diagnose (and treat) all kinds of ailments are a favorite trick among charlatans and fakers, some of whom are so convincing that they collect large sums of money before being caught.

For your own safety (not to mention pocketbook) find out whether this "diagnostic clinic" is legitimate. You can inquire at many places; he department, medical society, city hospital, Better Business Bureau. They can tell you whether this clinic is properly licensed to practice medicine. If it is not, the authorities can take action.

It is unusual for anyone to have diseases of the gall bladder, liver and kidney all at once, without prior symptoms. However, it is another trick of the quacks to tell people that they have such diseases and to start expensive "treatments."

As to your cancer worries, clinics are fine but individual physicians do an excellent job of examining too.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 50 years old, six feet one inch tall, and have weighed 220 pounds for the last 30 years. I have a lump in the centre of my chest bone. It is now one inch in diameter and it gives me pain when I do something strenuous. Is this a natural growth?—B.D.

This is a good example of the type of question to which I can only reply in lay style: I don't know. The lump isn't natural.

Consult a doctor who can look at it, feel it, maybe X-ray it. And then tell you how to correct it.

MRS. D.C.: A "tipped uterus" can indeed interfere with becoming pregnant. It usually can be corrected surgically.

ANN LANDERS

Keep On Plugging, Living Takes Guts

Dear Ann Landers: I've seriously considered taking my life

I'm a member of your "Smart Too Late Club." Three years ago I became involved in a love affair with a married man. He asked me to divorce my husband and marry him. To get the divorce I had to accept my husband's terms—no settlement, no support, no alimony.

After I went thru the mud and muck of the divorce my lover filled me—said he couldn't part with his children. Three months later he married another woman.

I know I was a fool and he was a rat but that doesn't help. I now work to support myself and my children. They are wonderful and have kept me going. But sometimes I think they'd be better off without me. Their father's second wife would take good care of them and they would have my insurance money.

Do you have any words of encouragement? —DESPERATE

Dear Desperate: You can give them something no one else can give them—your love, devotion and guidance. It takes guts to face life and keep plugging especially after you've botched it, but you owe it to your kids. This terrible thing you are contemplating is the coward's way out. You failed your children badly once—please don't fail them again.

Dear Ann Landers: In your new book, "Teen-Agers and Sex" you begin the fifth chapter "How To Help Yourself Stay Out of Trouble" with a false premise.

You said, "the word 'teen' comes from an Old English word, 'tean', meaning grief, misery, pain." The word "teen" to which you refer is archaic. The word "teen" which we use in such forms as "teen-ager" today comes from the Old English word "ten."

I am passing this information along to you in the interest of accuracy. —J. J. L., PROFESSOR OF ENGLISH (H. N. Y.)

Dear Professor: It is obvious that I had the luxury of a choice. The word I chose may be archaic but it was not incorrect. Choices are always nice to have. And one of the better known choices was that of Calvin Coolidge in 1928 when he said, "I do not choose to run."

I chose to refer to the Greek derivative "tean" rather than the Old English "ten" because in terms of the point I was trying to make I considered "tean" more appropriate. More teens identify with "grief, misery and pain" than with the number ten. Dear Ann Landers: If I am being petty please tell me and I'll try to change my thinking. My ring is beautiful and I am pleased when people ask to see it. BUT—I get very upset when my girl friends ask if they can try on my ring to see how it looks on them.

This has happened to me five or six times. I always say "Go ahead" but it really does burn me up. I wouldn't ask a girl if

Periodic X Rays Urged For Women

PALEM BEACH SHORES, Fla. (AP)—Periodic x-ray examinations of all women more than 40 were urged today as the only means of catching the "grievous" fall from breast cancer.

Dr. Jacob Gershon-Cohen of the Albert Einstein Medical Center, Philadelphia, made the plea in addressing the sixth annual seminar for science writers sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

He said about 95 per cent of all breast cancers are first detected by the patients, and by the time they are spotted 60 per cent of them already have spread beyond the breast to the armpits.

Thus, he said, available curative methods—such as surgery—are forfeited in approximately 50 per cent of all cases.

"It is my belief," he said, "that periodic x-ray examinations of women over 40 years of age can alter this... grievous situation."

Evil Spirits Enter Guests At Wedding

COLOMBO (Reuters)

A guest at a Ceylonese wedding reverted, screamed and fell shivering to the ground. Within seconds, the 18-year-old bride, the bridegroom and 11 other guests did the same. All 14 picked themselves up as one and ran madly toward a well, which had supplied them with water during the wedding feast.

This strange scene occurred in the village of Poluthiva, 50 miles from Colombo. The 14 victims still suffer about twice a week from five-minute attacks of "the curse."

Devil dancers, performing from dusk to dawn, have tried to drive away the evil spirits. They charge a high price for their weird, writhing dances, but the 14 are still not cured.

The villagers claim the illness was inflicted at the wedding by a rejected suitor who tossed an evil charm into the well. Western doctors said originally that the 14 persons, including a two-year-old girl, were suffering from food poisoning. Now they are not so sure.

All of the victims suffer a strange burning sensation in their bodies. At first the attacks come about twice a day. Now they occur about twice a week, each lasting five minutes.

The devil dancers, wearing frightening masks, act as exorcists. They dance through the night to the music of throbming drums until they drop in exhaustion.

"Curses" are fairly common in remote areas of Ceylon. But the torment of the 14 wedding victims is attracting national attention because of its duration.

WBA President Takes Stand To Help Solve Boxing Puzzle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ed-ton's stock in Intercontinental World Boxing Association, president of the world boxing association, appeared before the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee today as the investigation of the Clay-Liston championship fight draws to a close.

Laasman's appearance is an opportunity to solve a puzzle. What were his reasons for suggesting the association strip Cassius Clay of the heavy-weight title and bar Sunny Liston from another crack at it? And why did he withdraw the suggestion?

The stated reason for the inquiry is to determine whether the fight indicates a need for place professional boxing under federal policing.

Sam Margolis, acknowledging a profitable friendship with Liston and an association with underworld figures Frank Carbo and Frank (Blinky) Palermo, swore Monday the fight was not fixed. He denied that he was "fronting" for Carbo and Lis-

Kidd Wins U.K. Race

LONDON (CP) — Canada's Bruce Kidd today won the two-mile event at the English Amateur Athletic Association indoor championships at Wembley stadium.

Kidd clocked up a United Kingdom all-comers record of eight minutes, 39 seconds, winning easily after leading most of the way.

Irish-born Peter Mcardle of the United States was second in a time of 8:40.8 and Ireland's Tom O'Jordan third in 8:47.8.

Kidd, a University of Toronto student, had the stadium on its feet and cheering as he turned on a final burst of speed to draw away from Mcardle. The Canadian had taken the lead at the beginning and held it until Mcardle passed him, on the 18th lap of the 24-lap race.

Senior Curlers Limber Up With Upcoming Bonspiel

The Senior Curlers Bonspiel will begin April 2 at 9 a.m. and run until April 4.

The residential makeup of the entries indicates a wide spread interest being taken by the older members of the curling fraternity. Here is the latest breakdown of towns represented:

Kelowna (1), Vernon (6), Summerland (5), Trail (4), Penticton (3), Lakelse, Kimberley, Rossland, Victoria, Kamloops, Grand Forks, Naramata, Salmon Arm, Lumby, Nelson, Mission City and Chilliwack.

On the registration form of one rink, it shows the skip is 50, the third 71, the second is 59 and the lead, 61 for an aggregate of 241 years.

It is a condition of the bonspiel that players be 55 years old but each rink must aggregate a minimum of 240 years.

The April this year will be on a points basis—two for a win and one for a tie. In the event of rinks finishing with the same points total, then the scores, which will be tabulated through-

Kimberley Back In Cup Contention

KIMBERLEY (CP) — Kimberley Dynamiters pulled back into contention Monday night by defeating Lacombe Rockets 7-2 in the third game of the best-of-five Allan Cup series.

The Alberta team now leads the Western Canada semi-finals two games to one. The fourth game is scheduled here Wednesday night and the fifth if necessary Thursday.

Ken McTeer sparked Dynamiters with three goals while Don White netted two and singles came from Bill Steenson and Dave Ruaneil.

Dick Dunnigan scored for Lacombe in the first period and Bill McCulley in the third. The first period was marred by a fight between Lacombe's Brisson and Kimberley's Manchester. Both players started swinging their sticks high in an on-the-board skirmish in the Dynamiters end. They dropped their sticks and resorted to fist-cuffs, resulting in a five-minute major penalty each.

Dick Brown of Lacombe and Steenson were involved in another first-period skirmish on the boards and were assessed minor penalties.

Bob Wardel was a standout of the game, fending off the 41 Lacombe shots sent toward the Kimberley net. Russ Gillow kicked out 37 shots from the Lacombe net.

Sawchuk's Pinched Nerve Blowing Up Legal Storm

Terry Sawchuk pinched a nerve in Chicago, but the pain is twitching through a large chunk of North America.

As the Detroit Red Wings goalie lay in traction in a Detroit hospital Monday night, officials of Hockey's two top leagues pondered the legal repercussions of his medical mishap.

When his shoulder went haywire in a Stanley Cup semifinal game Sunday against the Black Hawks, it unravelled a roll of red tape that stretched from the National Hockey League playoffs to the American League championship.

In Toledo Ohio, where his Wings rested for their third series game tonight, manager-coach Syd Abel announced his intention of calling up AHL netminder Roger Crozier.

In Toronto, NHL president

Clarence Campbell said this could not be done, that Abel would have to stick with rookie Bob Champoux, 23, and that Pittsburgh Hornets' AHL championship chances could be forfeited if the club broke the rules and gave Crozier to Detroit.

In Quebec City, Bus Bastien, general manager of the Hornets, said all he knew was that there were two scheduled flights that could take Crozier away from the AHL playoff with Quebec Aves and get him to Detroit in time for tonight's game.

In Detroit, it was announced that Sawchuk would leave hospital today and probably would be ready for action tonight.

Champion, the Central Professional Hockey League netminder who helped the Wings even the series by beating Chicago 5-4, was standing by at his hotel.

NO EMERGENCY EXISTS

An emergency only exists, he said, "if a team's strength drops below one goaltender. Five defencemen or 11 forwards. With C's a top-notch goalie of playing as far as I am concerned there is no emergency."

The situation is elementary. The NHL will not challenge any player on the eligibility list, but the club must keep in mind penalties which can be imposed if a player is called up when conditions do not justify it.

There are stringent regulations that during the final 25 days of the season and during the playoffs no player can be elevated except under emergency conditions.

Although no penalties would be imposed by the NHL, there could be "very severe sanctions" against minor league clubs.

In this case, Balmer could take away Pittsburgh's Western Division championship, but Campbell said he did not want to second-guess the AHL official. The NHL high priest said the problem would be solved if Balmer decided to waive the rules, provided the Hornets were willing.

RASSE TO HORNETS

Crozier, the 150-pound middle man who has had NHL experience filling in for Sawchuk, would be replaced on the Pittsburgh roster by Hank Bassen, a 16-year professional hockey forward who has seen service in various leagues with Buffalo, Chicago, Calgary, Seattle, Springfield, Vancouver, Edmonton, Pittsburgh, Sudbury and Detroit.

While attention was focused on the Crozier question in series "B", Montreal Canadiens arrived in Toronto Monday night and hibernated in their hotel to rest up for the third game of their series against the Maple Leafs.

Coach Toe Blake would reveal no strategy changes, but had a jocular solution to the problem of using down Toronto's flying Frank Mahovlich "... we'll put five men on him."

Mahovlich played his best game in years Saturday night in Montreal scoring one goal and setting up Linensate Red Kelly for the other in a 3-1 victory that tied the series.

The Canadiens arrived without left winger Gilles Tremblay who broke a bone in his leg just above the ankle. Except for a few bruises, the Leafs were in top condition.

After games tonight and Thursday in Toronto and Detroit, the action returns to Montreal Saturday and Chicago Sunday. If sixth or seventh games are necessary in either series they will alternate between the cities.

Kelowna and District Fish and Game Club will hold their annual meeting tonight in the Legion Hall upstairs at 8. All members are invited to attend. Baseball Meeting Tonight At Arena

The Kelowna Minor Baseball Association will hold its organizational meeting for the 1964 season in the Memorial Room of the Kelowna Arena tonight at 7:30.

Officers will be elected for the coming season.

Opening lead—queen of clubs.
Deception plays an important part in the strategy of the game and may be employed successfully during the play of the hand by either the declarer or the defenders. Generally it is easier for the declarer to practice deception, since he has no partner to fool, but a defender can sometimes fool the declarer without at the same time leading his partner into a trap.

Here is a case where the declarer went wrong as the result of a false play by East. West led a club against four hearts.
Declarer took the ace and played a heart to the jack, which East won with the queen held, and another heart back, taken with the ace.

South then ruffed the club return and played a spade to the jack, which East won with the ace! This unusual play, designed to sell South the idea that West had the queen, paid off well when East returned a low diamond.

Spurning the finesse, declarer went up with the ace and played spade to the ten, confidently expecting the ten to win the trick and thus enable him to discard his diamonds on the good spades. But East took the ten with the queen, cashed the king of diamonds, and South went down one.

If East had taken the first spade lead with the queen and returned a diamond, declarer would have had no choice but to take the diamond finesse and he would have made the contract. East's play must therefore be credited with having brought about South's defeat.

Of course, it is true that South could, and possibly should have made the hand by finessing the diamond, but he fell into a trap which many other players would also have fallen into. It was a heart to the jack, which East won with the queen held, and another heart back, taken with the ace.

South after the fact and point out his mistake, but a more realistic appraisal would give East credit for seeing and using the usual opportunity and bringing it through to a successful close.

Bennett Plans Holding Another Bond Burning

Premier Bennett is going to have another bond burning. To be held in Vancouver Aug. 1, it will mark the 15th anniversary of his Social Credit government. The flames will destroy bonds of the bridges and tunnels built by the B.C. Toll Highway and Bridges Authority. This week the last remaining bond to be destroyed disappeared when a truck loaded with them was overturned on the Oak Street Bridge near the city's downtown. On Aug. 1, 1949 the government had its first bond burning at Kelowna to signify the province's freedom from direct debt.

PREMIER BENNETT ... Kelowna reminder

Bennett and his group of Norwegian expatriates have covered the first 15 miles of their 600-mile overland dash to the North Pole. The northern route is the shortest, but the most difficult, requiring a long drive to the Arctic Circle.

Hub Tigers Will Roar In '64 If Lary Continues Hot Streak

In the camp of Detroit Tigers, strong performance, Gary Pe- there is an acute awareness that the team's fortunes rest heavily on the comeback of the young pitcher, Frank Lary. The 21-year-old Lary, who pitched a shutout in his last game, is expected to return to the mound in the near future. Lary's problems began with an injury to his right arm in the opening day assignment for the 1962 season. He missed the first 14 games of the season, but when he returned, he pitched a career high 14 2/3 innings. Lary's return to the mound is expected to be a major factor in the Tigers' success this season.
